

Rollo in Naples

[...] And would not they go for two? asked Rollo. O, yes, said Mr. George; they will go for two; but then the men must have full price for their carriage and horses, and that makes it very expensive for two. What do people do, then, asked Rollo, when there are only two to go? They generally find some other people that want to go, replied Mr. George, and make up a party, and so divide the expense. And cant we do that? asked Rollo. We do not know any body here, said Mr. George.[...].
