Before men tryumph, the dominyon 205 Must be enlarged, and not preserued alone; Why shouldst thou then, whose battels were to wyn Thy selfe from those straights Nature put thee in, And to deliver upp to God that state, i Of which He gave thee the vicariate, 210 Which is thy sowle and body, as entyre As he who takes indentures, doth requyre, But didst not stay, to enlarge His kingdome too, By makeinge others, what thou didst, to doe; 214 Why rfioldst thou tryumph now, when heavn no more Hath gott, by getting thee, then it had before J than For heavn and thou, even when thou livedst here, Of one another in possession were. But this from tryumph most disables thee, That that place which is conquered must be 220 Left safe from present warr, and likely doubt Of imminent commotions to breake out; And hath he left us soe? or can it bee His teritorie was noe more but hee? No, we were all his charge; the dyocese 225 Of every exemplar man, the whole world is; And he was joyned in commission With tutular angoles, sent to every one. But though this freedom to upbraide and chyde Him who tryumphd, were lawfull, it was tyde 230 With this, that it might never reflectyon have Unto the senate who the triumph gave; Men might at Pompey jest, but they might not At that authority by which he gott Leave to tryumph, before by age he might; 235 So t...
